

ANDREA GONZALEZ

ACTRESS, MC, TV & RADIO HOST

Demo Reel & more

Andrea González, a seasoned news anchor and reporter, has been shaping narratives in the media landscape since 2009. Originating from Monterrey, Mexico, she anchored the INFO7 newscast on TV Azteca Noreste, where she pioneered the segment "Mujeres de Éxito" (Successful Women). As a correspondent for Univision from Mexico City, Andrea delved into diverse subjects ranging from politics and drug trafficking to human-interest stories and social issues.

Transitioning to the United States in 2016, Andrea assumed the role of host for Univision 34 Los Angeles, commanding the 6:00 pm and 11:00 pm newscasts alongside esteemed journalist León Krauze. Here, she initiated the empowering segment "Latinas de Éxito," aimed at uplifting Latina women across the nation.

Beyond her anchoring duties, Andrea is a dedicated advocate for Latina empowerment. She actively engages in events tailored to Latina women and imparts her expertise through journalism courses at institutions like California State University Fullerton. Her impactful conferences such as "Latinas de Éxito," "You are a Successful Woman," and "Make Your Health a Success" resonate with audiences seeking inspiration and guidance.

Andrea's journey in media began with a degree in Communication from the Iberoamericana University, AC. Further honing her skills, she pursued studies in elocution and voice dubbing at the Talento Interpretativo Profesional (TIPS) and undertook acting courses at prestigious institutions like the Teatro Helénico, the Russian School of Theatre, and the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM).

Her early career highlights include hosting the official program of the Partido Verde (Green Party), "Mexico Verde," and contributing to various news segments. Notably, her tenure as the host of the morning news show on TV Azteca Noreste garnered accolades, including the "Nuevo León of Journalism and Gender Equity Award 2011" and the "Francisco Cerdá Muñoz 2013" Annual Journalism Award for her socially responsible reporting.

As a prolific writer, Andrea's columns in INFO 7 and "El Horizonte" delved into Monterrey's cultural landscape and issues of social responsibility, respectively. Her literary contributions extend to designing and delivering impactful texts such as "Mujeres de Retos," "El Ascenso al Éxito," and "Tú eres una Mujer de Éxito," inspiring individuals to pursue their dreams with perseverance and knowledge.

In essence, Andrea González embodies the spirit of journalistic excellence, empowerment, and social responsibility, leaving an indelible mark on both sides of the border.
