Lulu Gomez is an Emmy Award-winning journalist, national correspondent, news and sports anchor, and multimedia storyteller whose career combines the urgency of live television with a passion for compelling human stories. Based in New York City, she currently serves as a National Correspondent for Univision's *Despierta América and as an Anchor and Reporter for Univision 41 New York, bringing versatility, credibility, and an engaging on-camera presence to one of the most competitive media markets in the country.

Throughout her career, Lulu has covered breaking news, major community events, sports, culture, and human-interest stories, reporting both from the field and the studio. Her work has taken her from delivering live national reports and interviewing newsmakers to anchoring newscasts and producing original stories for television and digital audiences. Before joining Univision, she worked as a Multimedia International Correspondent for Televisa, covering some of the most consequential stories of the period, including the COVID-19 pandemic and Black Lives Matter protests across the Northeast. Earlier in her career, she combined her passion for journalism and sports as a Producer and Host for ESPN Radio 1050 AM in New York, where she co-produced La Zona and conducted live interviews with coaches and sports organizations.

Her work has earned recognition from the New York Emmy Awards across news, sports, cultural reporting, writing, anchoring, and production, as well as the 2024 Excellence in Broadcasting Award from the New York State Broadcasters Association.

Beyond journalism, Lulu brings a distinctive artistic dimension to her work. A professional dancer with a background in performing arts, she holds a B.A. in Communication and Fine Arts from Universidad de Sonora in Mexico and pursued Art History and Arts Pedagogy studies through the Evening Division of Juilliard School of Arts in New York.

Fully bilingual in Spanish and English, Lulu represents a new generation of multimedia journalists: equally comfortable anchoring from the studio, reporting live from the field, covering sports, interviewing personalities, producing behind the scenes, or connecting directly with audiences across digital platforms. Her combination of journalistic experience, sports expertise, cultural perspective, and performing-arts background gives her a dynamic versatility that extends far beyond the traditional newsroom.
